Risk Factors*

Minifellowships
June 1–3
October 5–7

Updates
May 20
December 2

TARGET AUDIENCE

The Lipid Disorders Courses are educational opportunities designed specifically for cardiologists and other physicians, pharmacists, nurses, dietitians, and other providers who are interested in learning more about managing various lipid disorders.

LECTURERS

Thomas P. Bersot, MD, PhD, course director, is an associate investigator at the Gladstone Institute of Cardiovascular Disease, where he conducts research in HDL metabolism. He is a clinical professor of medicine at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF) and director of the Lipid Clinic at San Francisco General Hospital.

Mikelle McCoin, MPH, RD, is a consulting nutrition educator at the Gladstone Institute of Cardiovascular Disease and a lecturer in nutritional sciences and toxicology at the University of California, Berkeley. She counsels patients with dyslipidemia, evaluates research, and teaches on the management of dyslipidemia.

Criteria for Success

Statements of credit will be awarded based on the participant’s attendance and submission of the activity evaluation form. A statement of credit will be available upon completion of an online evaluation/claimed credit form at www.akhcme.com/gladstone. You must participate in the entire activity to receive credit. If you have questions about this CME/CE activity, please contact AKH Inc. at tbrignoni@akhcme.com.

Minifellowships

This two-and-a-half-day course features lectures and case discussions of lipid treatment guidelines, diagnosis of various dyslipidemias, dietary and pharmacologic treatments for lipid disorders, factors influencing treatment, and results of recent clinical trials.

A unique feature of the Minifellowship is a one-day demonstration clinic in which course participants see Gladstone Lipid Clinic patients and analyze their treatment.
